Annie's Author Adventures!

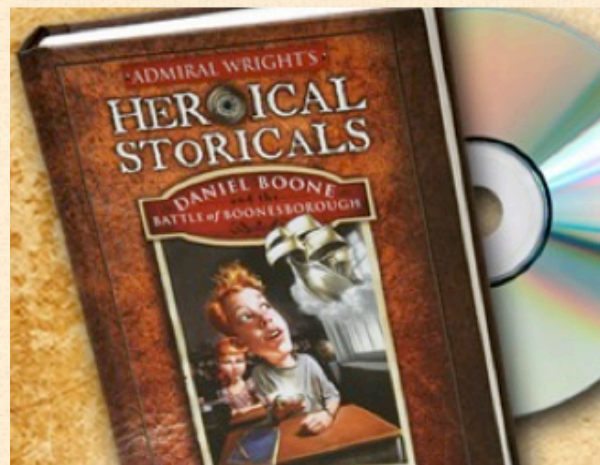

An Exciting Literacy Program At Your School!

Inspiring students to be the best readers and writers they can be!

Hi! I'm Annie Winston, an enthusiastic literacy advocate and author of the national award winning time travel adventure book series Heroical Storicals. My books offer a creative approach to learning placing history in a fantastic, imaginative world that captivates a students curiosity. My stories focus on historical heroes, persons of amazing honor and integrity, who make a positive impact on the world through courageous and sacrificial service. Important character lessons are woven throughout each story.

As an author I've spoken to thousands of students about literacy, the value of reading and writing and the importance of developing good character as they pursue their dreams.

My author visits involve two 45 minute assemblies for upper and lower elementary students. These visits are FREE* to your school with the hope that students, teachers and administrators will be eager to purchase signed copies of my books using the order form link below. My hardcover books are beautifully designed and I offer them for only $15. Daniel Boone and the Battle of Boonesborough and Harriet Tubman and the Underground Railroad are available and the third book is on its way!

Actively promoting my school visit helps assure a successful experience for everyone. Selling 50 or more books is a goal that most schools have achieved. Annie will host a pizza lunch for the class that brings in the most book orders.

I enjoy making my talks memorable and fun! Here's what a student, parent and principal have said:

"Your presentation was incredible. If I were a cartoon, I would have burst out in tears! Come again!"
Lahna third grade student

"Thank you for coming to our school. Your visit inspired my daughter to work hard to improve her writing. As a parent it was a thrill to listen to you encourage students to be 'champions of good character' and to live their dreams." Debbie Vopalensky -Parent

"The kids absolutely adored your presentation and they were thrilled to get a signed copy of your book. Thank you, thank you, thank you, for an amazingly inspiring presentation. I know that each and every student left the assembly motivated not only to read, but also to write, to be able to motivate such a love of learning is truly a gift." Brandy Price Principal of Ingenium School, Los Angeles, CA.

I would be very honored to visit your school this fall, 2011 and I look forward to talking with you soon!
